Mac To Visit Ike For Crisis Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will fly here from New York Saturday to talk with President Eisenhower about the East-West crisis in the United Nations.

One of the principal problems before the two Western leaders when they meet at the White House Sunday morning undoubtedly will be the heavy neutralist pressure developing in the U.N. General Assembly for a face-to-face meeting between Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced the meeting between Eisenhower and Macmillan, together with Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia. Hagerty said Eisenhower has wanted to have a talk with Menzies, and it was decided this could be combined with the session with Macmillan.

Hagerty's announcement was made at Denver, where Eisenhower Friday attended funeral services for Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Elvira Doud.

Due Back Home

The President is due back in Washington Saturday afternoon.

Some hours before the meeting of the President and the prime ministers was formally announced, five leaders of countries which are not aligned with either the Western or Soviet power blocs presented a resolution at the United Nations calling for a renewal of personal contact between Eisenhower and Khrushchev.

They termed it "a first urgent step" toward easing world tensions and bringing about a renewal of broad-scale negotiations.

The signers were Presidents Tito of Yugoslavia, Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, Sukarno of Indonesia, and Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Hagerty said he had no comment on this move of the neutrals in the cold war. Eisenhower has said that chances for his meeting Khrushchev were slight; Hagerty said he knows of no change in the President's plans.

Both British and U.S. diplomats privately said they did not believe Macmillan would bring any pressure to bear on the President to meet Khrushchev. Nevertheless, U.S. officials were reported well aware that the British prime minister, long an advocate of summit diplomacy, would very much like to see a renewal of contact if it were possible.

Macmillan met with Khrushchev for two hours in New York Thursday night. He subsequently announced he would delay his return to London and expected to meet again with Khrushchev next week.

Diplomatic professionals here were extremely skeptical about any positive accomplishment resulting from an Eisenhower-Khrushchev meeting unless there was a radical change of attitude on the part of the Soviet leader.

He has waged a bitterly anti-Western campaign spiked with personal attacks on Eisenhower since the breakdown of the Big Four summit conference in Paris May 16.

Private Services Are Held For Mamie's Mother

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Private funeral services were conducted Friday for Mamie Eisenhower's mother, Elvira M. Doud, in the same two-story gray brick house where the nation's First Lady and the President were married in 1915.

The last rites for Mrs. Doud, 82, called "Min" by President Eisenhower, were attended by 50 or 60 close friends and relatives.

Both the grief-stricken President and Mrs. Eisenhower were dressed in black. Mrs. Eisenhower wore a two-piece suit and tiny hat with no veil. Eisenhower had on a black suit with matching tie and hat.

Several hundred persons, many of them with cameras, stood across the street beneath leaden skies and watched the pallbearers bring the gray casket from the house and place it in a black hearse.

Mrs. Eisenhower clung tightly to the arm of the chief executive while they walked down the steps and entered a limousine for the trip to Fairmont Cemetery in Denver's southeast edge.

The Rev. Robert S. Lutz of the Corona Presbyterian church, which the Eisenhowers attended on visits to Mrs. Doud in Denver, officiated.

Eisenhower flew here earlier Friday from Chicago, where Thursday night he delivered his first all-out political address in behalf of the Republican presidential ticket, and where Friday morning he addressed the Polish-American Congress.

WHERE THE ENDS OF THE EARTH MEET

We see only wires! But at this very moment a woman in San Francisco may be speaking to her husband in Tokyo . . . a boy at Princeton may be inviting a girl in Albuquerque to a football game . . . and Mrs. Green of R. D. No. 1 may be placing her order with Mr. Brown of the Crossroads Store.

Here — where sixty wires cling to the cross-arms of a weathered pole — the ends of the earth meet!

It's like that in our local churches on Communion Sunday. Whether fifty or five hundred receive the Holy Sacrament . . . the ends of the earth meet. For the Lord's Supper is not a rite of one church or one denomination. It is the common sacramental feast of millions of Christians all over the world.

Are you availing yourself of this blessed privilege, and are you attending your church regularly? As you receive this Sacrament in your church, your life is linked to the lives of Christians everywhere. And you and they are united in a common communion with God!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Economic Warfare

President Eisenhower's denunciation of deficit spending as "the way of the political coward" may seem to have a partisan ring in a presidential election year.

But it is more than campaign talk. It's a warning to the United States not to play into the hands of the Soviet in an economic war.

Our spending for defense and foreign aid is being influenced to a large extent by Moscow's actions and threats. We are safe if we are able to hold the spending within our means.

But if the spending is accompanied by inordinate increases in the national debt and weakening of the dollar — in short, through deficit financing — then Mr. Khrushchev will be well along toward winning the economic war.

"Nothing," said Mr. Eisenhower in his Philadelphia speech, can more surely weaken our nation at home and abroad than such irresponsible spending. . . Weakness on the economic side is fully as dangerous to us as weakness on the military side. Indeed, in the long run, it is more so."

Spending by the last Congress has cut deeply into the 4.2 billion budgetary surplus the President had projected for the current fiscal year.

The Budget Bureau is at work now on the estimates Mr. Eisenhower will submit to the new Congress next year for fiscal 1961-62. Indications are for an additional 1.5 billion dollars in spending, not because of new programs but because of the built-in automatic increases voted by Congress in previous years.

Our New Missile Muscle

Our navy men, especially those who were in destroyers, will gasp at the news the Navy soon will launch the first of the Polaris-carrying submarines of the Lafayette class — 425 feet long and 7,000 tons in weight. (The four-stackers destroyers of the first world war were about 225 feet.)

This will bring the Polaris-sub fleet to a total of 14. Georgians will be interested to know that number 13 has been sea-tested and soon will be officially turned over to the Navy for operation.

It's name? The Robert E. Lee. The Lafayette class is larger. The Navy goal is 45 operational Polaris subs with others in reserve. Each will carry 16 Polaris missiles. These presently have a range of about 1,500 miles. With this range they can, from some ocean, hit almost any site in Russia.

The Navy has a powerful argument and it becomes stronger with each Polaris sub launched. Missiles can be hidden underground. They can be placed on railroad cars. But the hidden sites will draw heavy fire. Railroad lines can be restricted by hits on tracks and tunnels.

But the submarine, with unlimited underwater range, and in movement, cannot be hit so easily. The same is true of carriers from which missile-carrying bombers, or missiles themselves, can be launched. A swift carrier is not an easy target for a missile. No matter how carefully a missile may be aimed at a reported location, the ship will be a considerable distance away, by the time the report is made, calculated and the enemy missile fired. The U.S. missile position is improving.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Lust For Leadership

Many persons these days talk about leadership, about the need for broader, more intensified leadership. It is difficult quite to understand what they mean because actually the history of the 19th and 20th centuries has been a revolt against leadership, an effort on the part of the individual to think things out for himself and act upon his own judgment and to take the consequences.

That is why during these centuries there have been so many changes and many of them have been for the better. When great historic changes take place, many institutions of social value temporarily seem to collapse. The disturbances caused by such changes are always more trying to contemporaries than they are significant in history.

During this century, when material security seems so urgent, such movements as Fascism, Nazism, Communism, Socialism, and many others have developed to achieve total dependence of the individual upon the State. The conclave of leadership which appears in the General Assembly of the United Nations is not too impressive. These are not men of broad culture or of noble aspect; most of them are practical politicians, men who fought their way up through revolutionary forces or through the apparatus of party organization.

Most of the men at this meeting who stand out as leaders and who control the lives of people and the destinies of nations are startlingly not strong men, not handsome men, not powerful personalities. There is, for instance, not an orator in the crowd.

Khrushchev, Nasser, Castro, Eisenhower are not great speakers either in voice, in gesture or in nobility of thought and expression. Nasser's monotony was shocking in view of his power to sway men.

Yet, these men are leaders and men follow them. Why? What is the attraction? The answer seems to be that in an age of action, men of action are admired. These men are like swift automobiles in a race to go faster and faster, harder and harder.

It is not high thought that is wanted but action, action for action's sake. Note that Stalin avoided leaving Moscow; Khrushchev chases about the Earth.

He keeps on moving constantly. He is noisy, quarrelsome, an egomaniac, but he moves about. He is a man of action, of action for the sake of action.

The first debate between Vice President Nixon and Senator Kennedy did nothing to advance these men from the standpoint of leadership. Here were presented, on television, two young, lively, tired-looking men who were exceedingly polite to each other, who seemed to agree with each other about nearly everything but who expected to reach their goals by different means.

The spectacle was nonsensical. These men represent two vastly divergent views of society: one, Nixon, believes in capitalism which he calls "private enterprise," a synthetic term that hardly represents the mechanism; the other, Kennedy, is a Fabian Socialist who believes that it is the duty and responsibility of government to operate the economic mechanism. Kennedy eschews Communism which provides the same means, but he is a Fabian Socialist.

When Vice President Nixon politely reiterated that the goals of both were identical but the means different, what he said was most discouraging because from such a statement one can only infer that both are socialists but at a different pace. What difference does the pace make if the end is state monopoly of life?

Which of these two men is the leader, the slower or the faster? The absurdity of the debate appeared in the ridiculous questioning by radio commentators who were either badly coached or insidiously naive. Each candidate was asked to state why he thought that he was worthy of the Presidency. And the marvel of it is that each one answered such a question.

A leader of men never states his qualifications; they are inherent in his personality. These two candidates sounded like very young men applying for their first jobs and telling why they think they should be hired.

One said, "I am experienced;" the other said, "I am just as experienced as he is." It sounded awful from men who presume to leadership of other men. But then this blandness, the unexcited bowing seems characteristic of all these leaders, except Khrushchev who bellows and brawls and often wins his points.

Whoever advised Nixon to become as mild as the complacent Tom Dewey did the man no service.

"You SAY you didn't use it—but we NEVER sell wedding gowns with RICE in the seams!"

Twilight Of The Gods

Inside You And Yours

Undefinable Disease

Hubert peered at everyone with narrowed, suspicious eyes. Why shouldn't he? Like a leper he had been forced to walk in the shadows since childhood.

School doors slammed shut before him. Personnel people shook scowling faces from side to side whenever he applied for a job. Marriage would make him a criminal!

You see, Hubert had epilepsy — a condition which strikes terror into the uninformed!

The word "epilepsy" (meaning convulsion) was perfectly tailored for the inhuman medical profession of the 19th century, whose brilliance glitters with such terms as Insane Asylum, Hospital for the Incurables and Hospital for the Ruptured and Crippled.

No Excuse It's about time that epilepsy followed these primitive titles into extinction; modern medicine has killed any excuse for the word.

Many epilepsy-sufferers never fall into convulsions. Many more epilepsy-free victims fall, stiffen, and shake unconsciously day after day.

Convulsions (or fits) are triggered by a sudden burst of energy in the brain. Injury, infection, tumors and plain old fever have all erupted into these lightning-like heady explosions.

Only when the doctor can't account for the convulsions is the patient labeled "epileptic." Diagnosis by default determines epilepsy!

May Be Healthy Even recognized epilepsy-sufferers often enjoy healthy, fit-free lives.

The brain resembles a biological police radio. One part transmits signals, while the other receives them from the body's network of nerves. When a cerebral transmitter takes off on its own, you see convulsions, lightning spasms and the like. "The like" includes certain temper tantrums, sudden calms and uncontrolled walking forwards and backwards, all called epileptic equivalents.

Would you call this epilepsy? If the cerebral receiver rages out of control, only the victim notes the strange static. An overactive video may mimic unusual pictures, such as elephants dressed in white tie and tails. Audio bursts may sound like the cursing blast of a top sergeant or a lover whispering sweet nothings in the ear. Sometimes brain cell over-enthusiasm dazes the victim just long enough to miss his subway station or bus stop.

Brain cells generate electricity. Using machines which would fill half your living room, scientists record these electrical currents, commonly called brain waves. True epilepsy shows typically abnormal brain wave patterns.

Doctors once suggested substituting brain-wave analysis for diagnosis by default—until thousands of typical epilepsy-like brain waves turned up in "normal people."

No Convulsions Tom and Tim, identical twins carrying the same biological blueprints, both inherited epilepsy-labeled brain waves. Both lived convulsion-free, until Tom tripped and cracked his head on the sidewalk. Soon after, he began throwing "typical epileptic" fits daily.

Are both epileptic? Or only Tom? Their epileptic brain waves prove that both lads can pass the "taint" on to their sons and daughters. Yet ignorant people insist that epilepsy-sufferers (like Tom) shouldn't marry and have children. They don't understand that his brood may live as normally as Tim.

Unhappy And Unemployed Because people fear what they don't understand, epilepsy-sufferers continue to march among the untrained, unhappy unemployed. Medicines can erase almost all future convulsions. But on the epileptic treadmill, medicines cost money — money which the man without a job can't earn.

Helping Hannahs encourage the epileptic (whatever that is!) and point out how Caesar and Napoleon rose to immortal fame in spite of their epilepsy. Unless their good-will target wants to be a toga-clad dictator or a general with an itchy left chest, their reassurance can't bolster his morale as he waits in line for his unemployment check.

He merely wants people to notice his fitness—along with his fits!

Neighbor you may think that only grown-ups are interested in politics, especially on the national scene where the presidential election is the thing.

Yesterday we got the jolt of our life when our oldest daughter, Jocelyn, came home and cockily stated, "Daddy you have to vote for Kennedy for president."

This took us back on our heels. However, when we regained composure we sternly asked why we should pull the lever for John F.?

Our Pedy, with the light of joy in her eyes, calmly replied, "A boy told me yesterday that if Kennedy gets into office we'll have only four days of school every week."

We decided to probe into the matter a little further. Nonchalantly we said what would happen if Nixon got elected?

Jocelyn had a ready answer for this: "Dad the boy said to me if Mr. Nixon wins the presidency we'll have to go to school seven days every week."

The amazing part of this short interview with an off-spring is that the lass is only in second grade and the talk around their realm for that particular moment was politics.

We didn't delve too much further into the subject because it would have been cruel to ruin her "four-day" thinking. But we imagine that the political fathers of the world love this type of "rousing the nation's youth."

We tried to pacify Jocelyn by remarking that if Nixon gains the coveted seat that huge ice cream sundaes would be the mode daily and if Kennedy got into office lunch periods would be taken away.

However, the seven-year-old lass didn't go with the counter-attack and left the room looking forward to a four-day school week.

Who said kids aren't wonderful in their own lovely way. Even to the point that presidential candidates are human or Simon Legree.

Social Security Guide

Q. When my father died in June of this year, I assumed responsibility for the payment of his burial expenses. Financial difficulties of my own have kept me from paying such expenses. I hear now that the lump sum death benefit payable by social security may now be paid directly to the funeral home. Is this correct?

A. Yes, under the 1960 amendments to the social security law, you may make an application to have the lump sum death benefit paid to the funeral home.

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — It is now clearly evident why Vyacheslav Molotov was recalled from "exile" in Outer Mongolia and sent to Vienna as Russia's representative on the International Atomic Energy Agency.

His job is to enable Red China and satellite East Germany to get vital atomic materials and technical assistance from IAEA — of which neither is a member.

At the very first session attended by Molotov, he proposed this in a resolution.

Characteristically, this Kremlin scheme was carefully secreted in a sonorous declamation about making atomic aid available to the newly-independent and undeveloped African states that have not yet joined the international agency.

But close scrutiny by the U.S. delegation, headed by Atomic Commission Chairman John McCone, uncovered the hidden Red China-East Germany "joker."

It consists of two words—"other nations."

Molotov Plan Joker

Under this innocent-appearing provision, it would be possible for the Iron Curtain bloc in the IAEA to demand highly desirable atomic materials and technical assistance for Red China and East Germany.

Molotov admitted this was the intent when bluntly challenged on the matter by McCone. "These two great nations should receive such help from this organization if they ask for it," contended Molotov. "There is no reason why it should not be given to them for peaceful purposes. That is what IAEA is for."

McCone agreed IAEA's function is to further the peaceful use of atomic energy, but voiced strong doubts about the peaceful intent of Red China and East Germany.

With the support of other Western delegates, the U.S. representative blocked Molotov's attempt to secure an immediate vote on his proposal by having it referred to a committee for "further study."

However, this ominous issue is far from settled. That was made clear both by Molotov and Professor Vasily Yemelyanov, McCone's Soviet counterpart.

The Real Boss — Yemelyanov's tough stand is deemed far more important than Molotov's. That is because it is Yemelyanov who is doing the really significant talking and negotiating at the IAEA conference.

In a report to the Joint Congressional Atomic Committee, headed by Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), Chairman McCone stresses that Molotov's attitude and activities in Vienna clearly indicate he was sent there primarily to do this hatchet job for Red China and East Germany.

Except on this matter, it is Yemelyanov who is carrying the Russian ball. On all other questions, Molotov is either silent or not even present at the deliberations.

McCone cites as a graphic illustration of Yemelyanov's dominance his strenuous opposition to the U.S. demand for inspections to ensure that nuclear reactors are used solely for peaceful purposes.

The insistence on such safeguards is based on the simple fact that reactors, including those for generating electricity, produce some plutonium — the basic ingredient for nuclear weapons. "Peaceful purpose" reactors obtained by Red China and East Germany through IAEA could be used by them to secure plutonium.

The IAEA board of governors has approved McCone's plan for regular inspection of such reactors to prevent the plutonium from being diverted into weapons.

To demonstrate this country's sincerity, McCone has offered to make four large U. S. reactor available to an international inspection team so that sound safeguards can be worked out.

But Yemelyanov has brushed aside this proffer and is vehemently attacking the U.S. inspection proposal.

Outcome of this bitter fight of the IAEA conference is uncertain.

The international atomic organization now has 71 member nations of which Ghana is the latest. The newly-elected president is Professor Georgi Nadjakov, director of the Bulgarian Institute of Physics and vice president of the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences.

Former Representative W. Sterling Cole (R., N.Y.), one-time member of the Joint Atomic Committee, is executive director of IAEA.

Fallout — Economy-minded Budget Director Maurice Stans has turned thumbs down on a Navy request for two additional atomic reactors for bases in Antarctica. One reactor nearing completion will be shipped later this year to the Murdock Sound base. The Navy wants the two other reactors for a base at the South Pole and at the Admiral Byrd Station . . . During Premier Fidel Castro's stormy stay at the United Nations, he dropped hints to delegates that Russia has promised to supply him with "nuclear weapons in the event Cuba is attacked by imperialist U. S."

Social Whirl — It's one royal visit after another in Washington these pleasant autumn days. Next week, immediately following the stay of the Crown Prince and Princess of Japan, will come Belgian Prince Albert and his Italian-born wife Princess Paola. It will be her first visit. But Albert made a trip in 1955 as head of a Belgian economic mission. After a luncheon with President and Mrs. Eisenhower and numerous other parties, the royal couple will go to New York, New Orleans, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Dallas and San Francisco.

Gen. Nathan Twining, retiring chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is reaffirming that old saying, "many come to Washington but few return home."

He is telling friends that he and his wife have decided to make the Capital their permanent residence after he "turns in his uniform" the end of this month.

At an elaborate farewell buffet dinner for them at the Boling Air Base Officers Club, a large variety of delicacies were served, including shish-kabobs, smoked turkey, Smithfield ham, a round of roast beef, numerous pastries and ices, a table loaded with fresh fruits, among them jumbo strawberries from California, and a bubbling champagne fountain.

Dog Causes Accident On '209'

AN unidentified dog caused a three car accident on Route 209, two and one-half miles east of East Stroudsburg, at 9:55 a.m. yesterday. The only casualty was the dog, which suffered a broken leg.

State Police of the local barracks said cars operated by Manuel Perez, 57, New York City, and Marian Sherman, 32, East Stroudsburg, had stopped to let the dog cross the road when a car driven by Edward H. Davis, 26, Somerville, N.J., RD 1, struck the rear of the Sherman car, forcing it into Perez' vehicle.

Damage was estimated at $200 each to the Davis and Sherman cars and $75 to Perez' auto.

Mail Volume Reaches New High

A NEW all-time high in the nation's mail volume was reached during fiscal year 1960 ending June 30, which continued the steady upward trend of the past seven years at a rate which even exceeds the population growth, according to advance information from the "Annual Report of the Post Office Department" which has been made available to Postmaster Norman B. Gregory, of East Stroudsburg.

Although subject to last minute revisions, the year's total has been estimated as 63.6 billion pieces of mail which includes about one billion pieces of parcel post. It was stated that this would mean an increase of nearly 25 per cent over the corresponding figures for 1953 when the annual volume was 50.9 billion pieces.

Impressive Gain

During this same period, it was pointed out, the revenue of the Department also has shown an impressive gain with an increase from $2,091,714,000 in fiscal year 1953 to $3,276,800,000 for fiscal year 1960.

In East Stroudsburg, receipts of the post office climbed from $580,864.93 in 1953 to $863,957.50 last year.

"There is not much we can do about how much mail we have to handle from day to day or how many people are making use of the Postal Service," Postmaster Gregory stated, "but the whole Department keeps busy in devising ways and means for doing the job not only more efficiently but more economically. As I recall it, that was the way President Eisenhower outlined the principal objectives of the Department when Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield was being sworn in back in 1953, and that's the way we have been operating ever since."

Among Items

Included among items cited by Postmaster Gregory as recent accomplishments by the Department were the following:

Established the first large-scale program of automatic mail handling by machinery on a nation-wide basis.

Developed the "airlift" program which speeds up the delivery of approximately one letter out of every 17 on a "space available" basis.

Depot Deputy Commander Retires After '20' Service

THE 40-year-old deputy commander of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot retired yesterday after 20 years active service.

Lt. Col. Howell J. Parry, who entered the Army Sept. 15, 1940 as a private, had served as the depot's second-in-command for the past few months. During his 32-month tour of duty at the depot he had also headed up the Station Liaison Office and Supply Management Division.

A retreat ceremony was held in Colonel Parry's honor yesterday afternoon. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Howell Parry of Attica, N.Y., the colonel's parents. They saw their son receive a certificate of retirement from the Army and a letter of appreciation from General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Chief of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

They were also on hand later at a dinner party in the Officer's Club, when Col. Lester W. Kale, Tobyhanna Signal Depot commander, presented Colonel Parry with a retirement plaque and Certificate of Achievement.

Citation Reads

The citation reads in part: "For meritorious service and many achievements during the period Feb. 1, 1957 to Sept. 30, 1960. To all of his duties, Colonel Parry brought his wealth of experience, common sense, good judgment, energy, initiative, versatility, moral courage and determination. He has contributed significantly to the improvement of the depot's service to its customers and reduction of operating costs."

Just prior to his Tobyhanna assignment, Colonel Parry served as an advisor to the Nationalist Chinese Army on Taiwan.

His other overseas service includes tours of duty in Alaska and the Caribbean area.

A native of Attica, N.Y., Colonel Parry lived in Pocono Pines while stationed at the depot. He is married to the former Hazel Parks of Atlanta, Ga., and they have a teen-age son and daughter. The family will make its home in Atlanta.

College Football Roundup Across The Nation

By JOHN CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer
SYRACUSE and Washington go against rugged intersectional rivals and Northwestern faces Iowa in the headline games of a Saturday college football program which is certain to scramble the national rankings.

Syracuse, defending national champion and second-ranked in the Associated Press poll, invades Lawrence, Kan., for a battle with improved Kansas, rated No. 5. The game is to be nationally televised, starting at 1:45 p.m. EST, over ABC.

Washington risks its No. 3 ranking against powerful Navy, which has won its two opening games impressively. The game is at Seattle.

Northwestern, No. 6, and Iowa, No. 8, clash in a struggle of Big Ten giants at Evanston, Ill. Northwestern is slightly favored.

Top-ranked Mississippi gets another tuneup before going after the heart of its Southeastern Conference schedule meeting Memphis State. Ole Miss has won its first two games.

Southern California, still winless in two starts, travels to Ohio State (No. 9). The Buckeyes have a 24-0 victory over Southern Methodist.

Illinois (No. 4) meets still-weak West Virginia. In the South, seventh-ranked Clemson, looking toward another Atlantic Coast Conference title after belting Wake Forest 28-7, plays Virginia Tech. The Dadds battle each other at Gainesville, Fla., where Coach Bobby Dodd's Georgia Tech team meets Florida, quarterbacked by his son, Bobby Jr. Both are undefeated in two games.

Tennessee meets Mississippi State and Alabama takes on Vanderbilt in conference games.

Missouri comes East to play Penn State after winning its first two, Notre Dame, loser the last two years to Purdue, goes after the Boilermakers at South Bend, Ind., in an intrastate battle. Michigan and Michigan State also settle Southwest Conference title arguments quickly when they meet in Fort Worth. Air Force meets Stanford on the west coast.

Unsuccessful Attempt At Bribe At Michigan

By DICK PYLE
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — State police Friday revealed that an unsuccessful attempt to bribe a star Oregon football player was made the day before the Michigan game here last Saturday.

Detective Lt. Carl Robinson of the state police racket squad said the attempt, involving a Brooklyn, N.Y., schoolteacher, and two unidentified gamblers, fell through because the player, halfback Mickey Bruce, told his coach.

Racket squad detectives arrested the schoolteacher, A. David Budin, 27, but charged him only with registering at a hotel under a false name, a misdemeanor. The gamblers, apparently tipped off that police were on the case, vanished.

Budin pleaded guilty to the charge and paid a $100 fine and $10 costs.

Police said they might have pressed the bribery case if Leo Harris, Oregon athletic director, had been willing for Bruce to testify. Harris said he would refer the incident to the National Collegiate Athletic Association for investigation.

Carrying $1,100

At the time of his arrest, Budin was carrying $1,100, which he said he intended to bet on Michigan. Lt. Robinson quoted Budin as saying he didn't know the two gamblers by name but believed they were from Miami, Fla.

Robinson said Bruce was approached with the idea of playing poorly so Michigan would win the game by a certain number of points.

Bruce, 19, of San Diego, Calif., was a defensive standout in the game that Oregon lost 21-0 to Michigan. He also started Oregon on one of its few offensive drives of the game, intercepting a third-quarter pass.

Police said they would also probe a possible link between the attempt to bribe Bruce and a similar bribe attempt in Gainesville, Fla., the same day. In the Gainesville incident, University of Florida fullback Jon Macbeth was given $1,500 by gamblers to fix his team's game with Florida State. Macbeth tipped off police. One gambler and one student were arrested.

Florida won the game.

Four Yank Golfers Show 'World' Form

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
American golfers found Merion's lush fairways and soft, smooth greens very much to their liking Friday as they turned the second World Amateur Golf Team Championship into a rout.

A 67 by 44-year-old Billy Hyndman and 58s by 39-year-old Boo Gardner and 20-year-old Jack Nicklaus gave the United States a best-three team score of 203 for the day and a three-round aggregate of 615. These three Americans were so good on the first sunny day of the tournament that a one-under-par 69 by national amateur champion Deane Beman wasn't counted in the team total.

Nobody else could break par of 36-34-70 for the tricky 6,094-yard Merion course.

No Hope

At the three-quarter point of the tournament, no other team even expressed hope of catching the U.S. If three Americans shoot just even par Saturday, they'll wind up with a 72-hole aggregate of 823 — 32 strokes under the totals posted by Australia and the U.S. in the first world team championship at St. Andrews, Scotland, two years ago.

Once more it was a personal triumph for Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio. His three rounds of 66-67-68-201 were termed fantastic by the most conservative viewers.

In the team championship, only the best three scores for each team each day are counted in the total scoring. That wasn't much help to the U.S. visiting teams Friday.

Defending champion Australia moved into a tie with Great Britain-Ireland for second place at 654-38 strokes behind the Americans. South Africa was next at 660, followed by New Zealand, 662 and Mexico 669.

Yanks Starter Questionable

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel and the New York Yankees are throwing up a smoke screen around the starting pitcher in the World Series opener Wednesday at Pittsburgh.

Art Ditmar, Bob Turley, Whitey Ford and even rookie Bill Stafford have been mentioned during the week since the Yanks clinched the pennant.

Ditmar, top winner on the staff, was slated for a tuneup Friday night against the Boston Red Sox. Much could depend on the way he handled it. Turley is scheduled for Saturday and Ralph Terry in the regular season windup Sunday.

Stafford pitched Monday night in Washington, Ryne Duren started and worked four innings Tuesday and Ford had a five-inning whirl Wednesday night.

Many of the men who have been traveling with the club all season think Casey eventually will settle on Ford.

Although Ford's record is only 12-9 he has been the "stopper" in the big series all season.

Pen Argyl Favored Over Catasauqua

PEN ARGYL High School's grid squad ventures to Catasauqua this afternoon in search for their initial win of the young campaign.

The Green Knights dropped their opener last week to East Stroudsburg 21-0. In suffering the loss, coach Dick Wolford's men showed some good football but lacked any type of an offensive attack.

The forward wall of the Knights emphasized what had been expected of them. If the offensive units can match the performance of its up-front men, Pen Argyl could be a league contender.

The Knights have been favored to notch their first win today, despite last week's shutout.

The Catasauqua Rough Riders, with a season record of one and one this far, have three lettermen returning from last year. Pen Argyl has 12 returnees.

The Rough Riders took an opening game win from Coplay 13-8 but dropped its second encounter to the Bangor Slaters by score of 6-0.

Fullback Steve Williams, absent from last week's game, expects to see plenty of duty today. Williams had suffered an injury and was forced to miss the opening game.

Groat Seen Unavailable In Series

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — No one in the Pittsburgh camp is willing to be quoted by few really believe that Dick Groat, the Pirates' valuable shortstop and captain, will play against the New York Yankees in the World Series starting next Wednesday.

Even Groat is no more than merely hopeful.

And those who think Groat will be able to make it aren't sure he'll be at full strength. They question whether he can pick up where he left off after a month on the sidelines while recovering from a fractured left wrist sustained Sept. 6.

Pirate Manager Danny Murtaugh is not overly optimistic.

"But if anybody can make it, it's Groat," said Murtaugh. "He always keeps in top shape and he has the determination and desire."

Light Drills

Groat began light workouts last week after the cast had been removed and he stepped up his pace each day. He hit for a half hour in batting practice last Monday and, according to Murtaugh, Dick felt encouraged.

"Groat said the wrist didn't bother him too much," said Murtaugh.

The manager wasn't asked how Groat felt after a batting practice session the following night. The question was put to one of Groat's teammates.

"Terrible," was the reply. "Dick complained of pain in the wrist. He could hardly hold onto the bat at the end of the swing. I don't see how he would be ready by next week."

Groat, a leading candidate for most valuable player honors, currently is leading the National League hitters in the race for batting honors.

What does Groat think?

"I'm just hopeful," he said.

Trading Of Shares

By William A. Doyle

Q. Over the years, I have purchased small amounts of the same stock. I now own 105 shares. Because I made 12 different purchases and had the stock certificate delivered to me after each purchase, I hold 12 different certificates.

If I decide to sell all 105 shares, will the broker make 12 separate sales transactions (one for each certificate) or what?

A. Assuming that the stock you hold is traded in round lots of 100 shares (as most stocks are) your selling would be handled in two transactions.

One would be a round-lot sale of 100 shares. The other would be an odd-lot sale of the remaining five shares.

The fact that you hold a fistful of certificates doesn't make any difference. It's the number of shares (not certificates) that determines whether the transaction is a round lot or an odd lot.

Q. I own 50 shares of Chrysler stock. My wife owns another 50 shares of the same stock. I asked a broker (a member of the New York Stock Exchange) if we could sell all 100 shares in one transaction — as a round lot. The broker said no. He said that the sales would have to be handled as two separate 50-share odd-lot transactions. This doesn't mean that we would have to pay odd-lot fees. This doesn't seem quite right to us. What do you think?

A. That the broker either does not know or is cheerfully ignoring a New York Stock Exchange rule. You most certainly can lump your two 50-share sell orders in the same stock into one round-lot sales transaction — thereby saving yourselves the odd-lot fees.

Odd-lot orders in the same stock placed with a member firm of the New York Stock Exchange are supposed to be consolidated into a round-lot order when the customers agree to it.

Sell orders can be consolidated. Buy orders can be consolidated. Your order might be consolidated with an order from an absolute stranger, as long as you both agree.

Q. In one of your columns, you warned that investors would not expect "any stock to keep going up in price forever." Would you include a stock such as International Business Machines in this admonition?

A. What are you trying to do — set a trap? You're using the old political trick of quoting only a few words out of a longer statement.

The column you mention said much more. It explained that even the best stock falls in price sometimes; that investors should invest for the long haul; not worry about short-term ups and downs in market prices. And, as has been proven recently, IBM does fall in price from time to time.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Now there was a day I didn't have to go looking around for a cheerful variation on the swatch of material idea. Reminds me of the stage directions in one of Milne's plays: "I pray you, Mr. Carpenter, hang me up a moon."

Which you'll have to admit is a cheerful variation on the swatch of material idea. Reminds me of the stage directions in one of Milne's plays: "I pray you, Mr. Carpenter, hang me up a moon."

I can imagine decorating a whole house that way. "See that patch of yellow sunshine on the kitchen table? Well, that's the color I want the walls, and for accent, you see that sort of orange-red in that maple leaf—no not that one, the one next to it. Now for the ceiling—that silver grey of that patch of fog—see, just where it's thinning out a little?"

Of course you'd have to pick a painter who was also a bit of a poet and he'd have to look quick because colors in nature never hold still. A bit of wind and a green leaf turns silver; a passing shadow and a gold-red turns maroon; tilt your head and the lawn shows a sheen like velvet pile.

Besides, nature has a more adventurous spirit than the most avant garde interior decorator or wildest modern artist. These days you'll see in the countryside cerise and scarlet, purple and gold, blue and green combined with utter abandon for the principals of the color wheel.

Looks pretty good, too. Especially when the sun shines.

Miss Lydiann Stowarsz Is Bride of Cloyd Miller

Mt. Pocono—Miss Lydiann Stowarsz of Tobyhanna and Cloyd J. Miller, Pocono Summit, were married August 27, at 2 p.m. at Mt. Pocono Methodist Church. Rev. James Mori, pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, Joseph Stowarsz, wore a gown of silk chiffon over satin. The long pointed sleeves and the neckline were of lace trimmed with sequins at the neck. The overskirt flared from a garland of leaves which came to a point in front and back, and formed a chapel train. Her nylon veil was three quarter length with a crown of pearls and sequins. She wore a rhinestone heart which had been worn by her mother with her wedding gown. She carried a cascade of orchids and gladiolus with ivy.

Miss Nancy Maceyko, Scranton, the bride's cousin, was the maid of honor, wearing a pink chiffon ballerina-length gown with a deeper shade pink for the cummerbund, which formed a large bow in the back with ends falling to the hemline. She wore a pink flower clip, with eyebrow veil, and matching lace mitts. Her flowers were pink and white gladiolus arranged in a fan shape with a butterfly ornament amid the flowers.

The bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Knecht, Tobyhanna, and Miss Carol Kucenski, Clarks Summit, wore blue gowns of similar style as the maid of honor, with flower clips and veils to match. Their flowers were pink with long streamers.

Maryann Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith, Pocono Lake, a niece of the bridegroom, was the junior bridesmaid. She wore a white nylon dress, and carried a miniature fan-shaped floral arrangement.

There were vases of white pom-poms and gladiolus on the altar, and the organist was Mrs. David Keper.

Three County PTA Units Earn Gold Leaf Award

At the meeting of the Monroe County Council of Parents and Teachers this week at the Barrett Twp. School, three gold leaf awards for increased memberships were awarded to: Chestnut Hill, Delaware Water Gap and Morey PTAs.

The gold leaf award is given to local units for attaining goals suggested by the state office. County President Russell Pritchard announced that the State PTA Convention will be held in Pittsburgh October 20 and 21. Local units may send one delegate for every 25 members plus their president. Walter Melnikoff was appointed as official delegate of the county council.

An invitation was read from Eldred Twp. asking the council's assistance in organizing a Parent-Teachers Assn. unit at Eldred. Melnikoff and Edward Doney were appointed to meet with Eldred citizens on October 3.

College Night Set Mrs. John Black reported that all is in readiness for County College Night to be held October 20 at 8 p.m. at the new East Stroudsburg High School. Seventeen colleges will be represented to discuss their schools with parents and children with college intentions.

Mrs. Mary Gearhart, program chairman, requested all local units interested in having their programs evaluated to send two copies of their program to her before November 15. Mrs. Gearhart evaluates all programs and sends a copy to the state officer for final marking. She said, "PTA is only as good as its program."

Herbert Larsen, president of the Barrett PTA welcomed the council to Barrett and was host at the social time when Barrett PTA members served refreshments.

AAUW To Open Year With "An Innocent in Greece"

"Random Comments of an Innocent in Greece" will be the title of the informal talk to be given at the opening dessert meeting of the local branch of the American Assn. of University Women on Monday night at 7 at the Stroud Community House.

Dr. Marjorie Smith, a professor of Geography at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, and a member of the branch, spent five weeks in Greece this Summer during which time she visited the original Olympic stadium where Plato earned the title of the "Broad-shouldered wrestler."

She also saw a Greek play, "Epidurus" in a Greek theater, and traveled in Italy, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

Mrs. Loise Mirandon is chairman of the hostess committee which will serve dessert at 7 p.m. preceding the program.

Mrs. Jack Lantz will preside at the business meeting.

The study groups of the branch have already mapped out their programs for the year.

Returning to active service is the International Relations Study group with Mrs. Curt Wimer as leader. The first meeting will be held Wednesday, October 26 at the Wimer home in Bartonville when Dr. LeRoy Kohler will lead the discussion on "Influence of the November Election on International Affairs."

The study group is open to all interested local men and women.

The Great Books study group under the leadership of Miss Katherine B. McFarland has already started its third year and has closed its membership at 21. Meeting on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, they have already discussed "Job" and in October will discuss "The Oresteia" by Aeschylus and selections from "History of the Peloponnesian War" by Thucydides.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Diefenbach are chairmen of the duplicate bridge group which meets the second Friday night of each month at the Stroud Community House.

Roast Beef Dinner Barrett — The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Mountainhome Methodist Church will serve a roast beef dinner at the church on Saturday, October 8 from 5 to 7 p.m. There are half-price tickets for children. The public is invited.
